

Visit to Odense University Hospital to achieve further knowledge and skills in minimal invasive surgery

In March 2016 I visited the Division of Minimal Invasive Surgery at the Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology at Odense University Hospital in order to achieve further knowledge and surgical skills. In Odense there is a center of excellence in minimal invasive surgery. At my own department at the Karolinska University Hospital we are developing our minimal invasive surgical unit in benign gynecological conditions, in particular endometriosis but also minimal invasive hysterectomies.

The whole stay was spent in the operation theatres and I acquired new skills and techniques that I directly could spread and share at my own department when I came back. I hope to deepen the collaboration in the future and that my visit could open up for more exchange between our centers.

I wish to thank the NFOG fund for the financial support that made the visit to Odense University Hospital possible.
