Report of participation in Advanced course in gynecological ultrasound, Malmö, Sweden

I had the pleasure of attending the “Advanced course in gynecological ultrasound” in Malmö 21.01.19-25.01.19. The course was led by Prof. Lil Valentin, Prof. Povilas Sladkevicius and Dr. Ligita Jokubiene from Lund University Hospital. Specialists from both England (Davor Jurkovic) and Italy (Dorella Franchi, Antonia Testa and Gianfranco Zannoni) were invited lecturers. All the lectures were of high quality. The combination of both lectures and ultrasound live sessions was good, and everything had a good connection to clinical practice. The course attendees were from all over the world, although most from Scandinavia.

The course gave us practical tips to recognize benign and malignant adnexal and uterine masses using IOTA (International Ovarian Tumor Analysis), MUSA (Morphological uterus sonographic assessment), IDEA (International deep endometriosis analysis), IETA (International endometrial tumor analysis) guidelines. The course included also problems in an early pregnancy including ectopic pregnancy and its ultrasound findings.

The five days were long and intense, but I am very happy that I had the opportunity to participate. What I have learned will probably make my work of higher quality and hopefully safer, and I will highly recommend this course to my colleagues.

I thank NFOG for the support and the opportunity to participate in this high quality course.
